The impeccably researched, deeply moving, never-before-told tale about a World War II incarceration camp in Wyoming and its extraordinary high school football team—for fans of The Boys in the Boat and The Storm on Our Shores. In the spring of 1942, the United States government forced 120,000 Japanese Americans from their homes in California, Oregon, Washington, and Arizona and sent them to incarceration camps across the West. Nearly 14,000 of them landed on the outskirts of Cody, Wyoming, at the base of Heart Mountain. Behind barbed wire fences, they faced racism, cruelty, and frozen winters. Trying to recreate comforts from home, many established Buddhist temples and sumo wrestling pits. Kabuki performances drew hundreds of spectators—yet there was little hope. That is, until the fall of 1943, when the camp's high school football team, the Eagles, started its first season and finished it undefeated, crushing the competition from nearby, predominantly white high schools. Amid all this excitement, American politics continued to disrupt their lives as the federal government drafted men from the camps for the front lines—including some of the Eagles. As the team's second season kicked off, the young men faced a choice to either join the Army or resist the draft. Teammates were divided, and some were jailed for their decisions. The Eagles of Heart Mountain honors the resilience of extraordinary heroes and the power of sports in a sweeping and inspirational portrait of one of the darkest moments in American history.

This fifth edition incorporates material from the vast array of new literature, along with suggestions from readers. This new edition places greater emphasis on the ideological aspects of the German war against the Soviet Union, including the notorious "commissar order," as well as the complicity of the Wehrmacht in Nazi atrocities on the Eastern Front. It also pays more attention to Stalin's initial failure to react to the invasion and the Soviet murder of German prisoners. There is increased coverage of the Holocaust, including a consideration of the reasons why the Western Allies were not able to intercede in behalf of the European Jews.

civilian and military lives. In this challenging new book, Lee Baker distinguishes myth from reality and deflates the idea that this war, while gargantuan in scale, was in essence a war like any other. Following an introduction that considers historiographical approaches to the conflict, the author: - Examines the reasons behind Germany's decision to fight a war on two fronts and the initial inadequacy of the Soviet defence - Analyses the major battles and questions whether there was a definitive moment at which the war turned against Germany - Looks at the role of resistance movements and considers key issues such as the relationship between the war and the Holocaust This Seminar Study provides the most succinct and lucid introduction available to this large and complicated topic. It synthesises the latest scholarship to illuminate the current understanding of the war, and includes contemporary documents which allow readers to examine for themselves the materials from which the history is written. Dr. Lee Baker is Associate Professor in the Department of History at the University of Cincinnati.

"A truly inspiring read." —Booklist (starred review) "A solid account of women's contributions as aviators during World War II." —Kirkus Reviews In the tradition of Hidden Figures, debut author Patricia Pearson offers a beautifully written account of the remarkable but often forgotten group of female fighter pilots who answered their country's call in its time of need during World War II. At the height of World War II, the US Army Airforce faced a desperate need for skilled pilots—but only men were allowed in military airplanes, even if the expert pilots who were training them to fly were women. Through grit and pure determination, 1,100 of these female pilots—who had to prove their worth time and time again—were finally allowed to ferry planes from factories to bases, to tow targets for live ammunition artillery training, to test repaired planes and new equipment, and more. Though the Women Airforce Service Pilots lived on military bases, trained as military pilots, wore uniforms, marched in review, and sometimes died violently in the line of duty, they were civilian employees and received less pay than men doing the same jobs and no military benefits, not even for burials. Their story is one of patriotism, the power of positive attitudes, the love of flying, and the willingness to serve others with no concern for personal gain.

"Judith Pearson does a remarkable job of bringing one of America's greatest spies back to life. I highly recommend this story of derring-do and white knuckles suspense." —Patrick O'Donnell, Combat Historian and Author of Operatives, Spies, and Saboteurs The remarkable story of one of WWII's greatest spies. Virginia Hall left her comfortable Baltimore roots in 1931 to follow a dream of becoming a Foreign Service Officer. After watching Hitler roll over Poland and France, she enlisted to work for the British Special Operations Executive (SOE), a secret espionage and sabotage organization. She was soon deployed to occupied France where, if captured, imprisonment and torture at the hands of the Gestapo was all but assured. Against such an ominous backdrop, Hall managed to locate drop zones for money and weapons, helped escaped POWs and downed Allied airmen flee to England, and secured safe houses for agents. And she did it all on one leg: Virginia Hall had lost her left leg before the war in a hunting accident. Soon, wanted posters appeared throughout France, offering a reward for her capture. By winter of 1942, Hall had to flee France via the only route possible: a hike on foot through the frozen Pyrénées Mountains into neutral Spain. Upon her return to England, the American espionage organization, the Office of Special Services, recruited her and sent her back to France disguised as an old peasant woman. While there, she was responsible for killing 150 German soldiers and capturing 500 others. Sabotaging communications and transportation links and directing resistance activities, her work helped change the course of the war.

This Study Guide is designed to cover the Section A of Paper 2 Historical Investigation: A1 the origins and course of the First World War, 1905-18, as part of the Pearson Edexcel International GCSE in History (4HI1). This is a period of history that deserves study. The First World War transformed the world in many ways. It changed societies; it brought down empires and brought about great advances industrialisation and technological advances. Warfare was also transferred with the introduction of tanks and aircraft in battle for the first time. The First World War was fought in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and also at sea. The conflict would not be formally ended until the Treaty of Versailles on the 29th June 1919. From the wreckage of the First World War a new Europe was formed. As a result of the First World War, the Empire of Austria- Hungary was dismantled, the Russian autocratic Tsar was overthrown and the Bolshevik Communists established the USSR. Germany lost land and was humiliated, sowing the seeds for the rise of Hitler and the Second World War. By the time the war ended on 11th November 1918 over 10 million soldiers had been killed and over 20 million were wounded. With the benefit of hindsight, it is easy to see how the First World War was inevitable. Over the preceding decades the Great Powers of Europe were all competing to carve up the rest of the world - and take as much of it for themselves as possible. The European Great Powers; Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Austria-Hungary and Italy all desired new territories to rule and exploit. With more than 20 topics covering the origins and course of the war, this study guide covers all aspects of the syllabus requirements, including the alliance system and international rivalry in the years 1905-14; the growth of tension in Europe, 1905-14; the deadlock on the Western Front; the war at sea and Gallipoli, and the defeat of Germany in 1918.

The thesis of this research is that the U.S. Army aviation engineer units played a crucial role in the success of General Douglas MacArthur's island hopping campaign in the Southwest Pacific Theater at the tactical, operational, and strategic levels. Allied victory depended on seizing lightly defended enemy territory and neutralizing enemy strongpoints from Australia to the Philippines through the following pattern: conduct air and naval bombardment, land the assault forces, defeat any Japanese units in the area, and construct airfields and base facilities. This research demonstrates that aviation engineer units rapidly constructed these airbases and provided the necessary facilities for land-based aircraft so that carrier-based aircraft could focus on protecting the navy's fleet.
